

VERGE GALLERY READING ROOM SUBMISSION FORM

Info: The Verge Gallery Reading Room stocks a range of art publications, artist books and zines available to browse for free in our gallery space on the University of Sydney campus.

Fees: Submitting publications to the Reading Room is free. We ask that Authors cover postage expenses and include a paid self-addressed envelope if they wish to have their publications returned at the end of the calendar year.

Material: We ask that the material be non-discriminatory. Verge Gallery in association with the University of Sydney Union considers the following as offensive subject matter: Racism, Sexism, Homophobia, Violent imagery or language, Material deemed generally offensive. We understand that in some instances the above might be deemed necessary to convey a particular concept and are happy to review applications on a case by case basis.

Copyright: We would love to share images of your work and of the Reading Room on both our website and social media channels, if you would prefer to be exempt from this please notify us.

Advertising: As part of Verge Gallery's Reading Room, there will be a regular 'Author of the Month' update on the Verge Gallery website. This is a project run by the volunteers at the Verge Gallery, and it consists of an interview which provides a platform for artists and authors to discuss and promote their work. The ideas and discussion presented in the interviews will be used as material for the Gallery social media. If you prefer to be exempt from participation in this project please notify us. There is also an opportunity for Verge Gallery to advertise author's websites on our Reading Room page. Since the Reading Room does not sell publications itself, this is an opportunity for readers to interact with, and purchase from the publication authors.
